Stephanie Morris is a music therapist working at Cleveland Clinic's Hillcrest Hospital in Cleveland, OH. She earned her Master of Music Therapy degree from Augsburg University in 2019. Stephanie has had the honor of working as a music therapist in the medical setting for nearly 7 years, working with populations including: oncology, intensive care, general medical, hospice/palliative care, and trauma. She has witnessed how music has the power to not only accompany people in their experience of illness, loss, and grief but also help foster connection, forge meaningful relationships, and promote well-being. Stephanie believes in the importance of not being defined by pathology but to celebrate one's strengths, supports, and health. She also enjoys fostering the professional growth of others, facilitating a peer supervision group for music therapists in her community. Stephanie continues reflecting and learning from her therapeutic relationships with patients and her own music and life experiences. In her non-therapist time, she enjoys cooking up delicious new recipes, reading and listening to podcasts, eating dark chocolate, and spending time with her husband and pup.
